

21. Wherever I fall- Pt.1

Cyrano

[INTRO]

Db | Db | Ab | Ab [2x]

[GUARD 1]

I have a wife I haven't seen

Since lilacs bloomed in Saint-Hippolyte

She always wears them in her hair

She lets them fall down everywhere

I can see her in the glowing light

Dressing without a sound

I promised I'd be home all right

But I gotta lay this body down

So take this letter to my wife

And tell her that I loved my life

And tell my boys, the Lord he found me

When I say their names out loud, they're all around me

And tell them not to cry at all

Heaven is wherever I fall

[GUARD 2]

I have a girl, I think I love her

Should have told her,

instead I told her mother

I gave her chocolates, I bought a ring

But I never told her anything

But I can see her in every detail now

Turning in my mind

I barely knew that girl at all

But I will love her till the end of time

So take this letter to my girl

Tell her that I saw the whole world

Say that right before I fell

I said her name out loud- Isabelle

And tell her not to cry at all

Heaven is wherever I fall

[GUARD 3]

I have a father, he isn't well

Thinks he might be going to hell

He was a sinner, he liked to fight

So I don't know, he might be right

I can see him every Sunday morning

Diving into the fray

He wasn't one of God's best men

But I loved him anyway

So take this letter to him, please
 Tell him I can't wait to see him
 I went in first, I rang the bell
 I called his name out loud and I gave 'em hell
 So tell him not to cry at all
 Heaven is wherever I fall

[ALL]

Tell 'em not to cry at all
 Heaven is wherever I fall
 Tell 'em not to cry at all
 Heaven is wherever I fall
