2. World Within My Room Maybe Happy Ending

[OLIVER, spoken]

Let's see what's happening in the world

[RADIO, spoken] At a high of 68,

With four days of rain behind it

The yellow sand conditions have cleared

So leave that mask at home

It's the perfect day for outdoor activities

[OLIVER, spoken]

It's a perfect day to look out the window

[OLIVER] Today the air in Seoul

Is very clear and warm

Today the smiles, too,

Are warmer than the norm

Though the change is not profound

There's a specialness going around

Let's enjoy the day

[VOICE, spoken]

Mail chute activating

You have two deliveries

[OLIVER, spoken]

Jazz Monthly, April issue

Great picture of Duke Ellington, isn't it?

My elbow replacement

I'll have to model it for you later,

HwaBoon

Any mail from James Choi?

[VOICE, spoken] Delivery complete

[OLIVER] A friendly morning chat

To start a perfect week

But I don't need a chat

To make my day unique

Just the sun that warms my chair

Is sufficient to make me declare

Let's enjoy the day

Watching from the window

As the morning crowds appear

Picturing the places they are going

Soon the rush is over

And the sidewalk starts to clear

Then I start my day in here

The world within my room

The perfect place to explore from

I never need more from

The world within my room

I choose a book and I read it

A place to recharge when I need it

And it's all within my room

[OLIVER, spoken]

(C) Let's see what's happening in the world

[RADIO, spoken]

(C) Ooh, gonna have to bundle up, folks

Today's the coldest day of winter,

(C) High 20, low 8

[OLIVER, spoken]

(F) Remember how good I was

At shoveling snow?

(C) James never missed the chance

To tell me that

[VOICE, spoken]

[OLIVER]

Today, not rain nor sun,
But something in between
Today, the same old view,
Today, the same routine
But we'll choose the perfect tune
And remember
That James will come soon
So let's enjoy the day

The world within my room
With all the things that I own here
I'm never alone here
Busy, happy room
No need for thrills or updating
It's perfectly perfect for waiting

And to wait's not tough here

'Cause I have enough here

In the world with-in
My room

World Within
